In 2021 - Dropping all constructs and people out. Just remembering Self, 1 human with no ties to anyone or anything, but because of that everything. However, as a human, seeing both devil and saint in people. How small money changes everything. However, you don't know what money is, when you haven't see it. The problems of money are different at different tiers. We only receive information based on the power circuit of our choice. We only know as much as our network. So today, what one knows, everyone knows. People have a choice to make at this point - How they want to live their life. Looking at deserted towns in California and Nevada. It's the choices we made, that gives us the privilege to see the world as it is. However, sometimes, good things happen. They grow, if we share them. But if we keep everything to ourselves, then we don't see the whole picture. Currently, there is military all over America, Martial Law, working close with law enforcements to keep peace. While the world comes out of healing from the virus. However, many people take this point as an advantage - In competition, if a person passes away, the business opportunity in the future will be much bigger. The people that are looking for business today, never ran a business before. But we also have count the fact, that the virus has created lots of separation in people. We could have huge dreams, but without resources - People that actually do the work, we can use social media to keep us entertained every day. Once the virus vaccination priorities are lowered, then we will be able to move freely and find love again. We just have to make through this time - Stay positive and live life, day by day, and fully enjoy it. Make sure to do all your most important things first - IF you have any time remaining, we can give you some real tasks. For example, how to talk to a human being in a coffee shop, like Starbucks. Easy test, can I walk to a coffee shop alone in America? Would I feel safe to have that privilege.

Chapter: Black Lives Matter Leading crypto, NFT, metaverse and WEB3 product development

This year, as leader in startup school, incubator software in agile development and lean startup, we helped celebrity brands like Snoop Dogg and Paris Hilton achieve great success, in pioneering "pixel" design, later Google introduce "Pixel Watch", as we delivered a front-end JavaScript toolkit for WEB3 components. Only to find Silicon Valley HBO investors falling asleep, to now India taking the lead in Software Development for cryptocurrency in 2022, building all financial software. Meanwhile, the venture capital that didn't make it to ETF rounds of government bonds, because of "dark history" now competing with founders of technologies, only to distract them - However, none of these venture capital have been able to attract any real talent, hence the resources have completely moved offshore. The price tags of startups going to IPO, Clubhouse at $4 billion, the price is so high, that none of the funds in software can guarantee any returns for the next 10 years. Many venture capital companies now moving or shutting down - For not making the returns in cash, although bitcoin and cryptocurrency funds are showing mega returns.

Chapter: Just Launched: Shop Ventures! A new Venture Capital Firm, focusing on Mount Shasta, Silicon Valley and Los Angeles Entrepreneurs!

Venture Capital - What does it mean? Venture means business, capital means resource, could be money, or humans. At Shop Ventures, we invest in people. We invest in people that know how to utilize money well. Am I paying too much for the life coach and he told me to just sit on twitter? We are here to eliminate all the venture capital firms, that are not good people. Does my wife loves me? Who loves me more, the dog or the wife? Fuckin virus, I am tired of thinking like this -However, after lockdown, I don't have any where to go any way, except on an airplane. I walk in social media events and I like to look like a venture capital. Because then people come to me and talk. But when people are trying to speak to me, in natural settings, I am very shy and angry. Still reading - Haven't looked at anyone's profile - So I am not going to look at anyone, just yet. I am going for a smoke. Meanwhile, I would like everyone to get a piece of paper and pen. Write your 2021 goals. I will be back. People that look at poor or rich? Their children will be doing Instagram all day, in the future, licking each like. I feel sad for them. What the kids should be learning; instead, now we have to re-program them. Think of the curve. The longer re-programming is a multi lifetime achievement. What's the cost on the child, having a retarded father? they are all hanging out on #instagram today. My kids vs your kids. They think of me as, "you brown mother fuckers, go back to your country". Then we have the couch problem; a larger couch, by the time their kids grow up. 1 kid out of 100 is working because they see their father today, building it for their future. Currently 1 engineer is working, everyone else is looking at him, so the kid already has his mind made up; you fucked me, I am going to fuck you. through mother. Then we go back again, to husband, wife, kids, dog and zoom pattern. still haven't looking at much except instagram today, waiting for Hillary Clinton, Barack Obama and Joe Biden to clean it up.

Chapter: Numerology - Age Brackets 27, 54 and 81

Plato died at the age of 81, the same day he was born, as a palindrome to the Spirit, which is to epitome to the Spirit, 5 elements, through tao master, the dragon. He defined 5 elements, 5th key to the heavens. The mystic principles of Numerology and the divine triangle, ages 27 is youth, through 54 is sage and through 81 is a saint. Tao Te Ching ends with 81 chapters, to the bride and groom, a palindrome. However, a epitome today, with 2 points of palindrome in the past, makes for 2 points in the future. Locking a mathematical equation of Time, and circular set of events, bound by Math and Numerology.

Chapter: Pythagoras and Plato - Soul Math and 5 Elements

Although Socrates influenced Plato directly as related in the dialogues, the influence of Pythagoras upon Plato, or in a broader sense, the Pythagoreans, such as Archytas also appears to have been significant. Aristotle claimed that the philosophy of Plato closely followed the teachings of the Pythagoreans, and Cicero repeats this claim: "They say Plato learned all things Pythagorean." It is probable that both were influenced by Orphism, and both believed in metempsychosis, transmigration of the soul. Pythagoras held that all things are number, and the cosmos comes from numerical principles. He introduced the concept of form as distinct from matter, and that the physical world is an imitation of an eternal mathematical world. These ideas were very influential on Heraclitus, Parmenides and Plato. For Numenius it is just that Plato wrote so many philosophical works, whereas Pythagoras' views were originally passed on only orally. The platonic Republic might be related to the idea of "a tightly organized community of like-minded thinkers", like the one established by Pythagoras in Croton. The idea that mathematics and, generally speaking, abstract thinking is a secure basis for philosophical thinking as well as "for substantial theses in science and morals". They shared a "mystical approach to the soul and its place in the material world". Plato may have studied under the mathematician Theodorus of Cyrene, and has a dialogue named for and whose central character is the mathematician Theaetetus. While not a mathematician, Plato was considered an accomplished teacher of mathematics. Eudoxus of Cnidus, the greatest mathematician in Classical Greece, who contributed much of what is found in Euclid's Elements, was taught by Archytas and Plato. Plato helped to distinguish between pure and applied mathematics by widening the gap between "arithmetic", now called number theory and "logistic", now called arithmetic. Assignment to the elements in Kepler's Mysterium Cosmographicum. In the dialogue Timaeus Plato associated each of the four classical elements (earth, air, water, and fire) with a regular solid (cube, octahedron, icosahedron, and tetrahedron respectively) due to their shape, the so-called Platonic solids. The fifth regular solid, the dodecahedron, was supposed to be the element which made up the heavens.

Chapter: Plato Predictions - Math, Politics and Tyrants

"Until philosophers rule as kings or those who are now called kings and leading men genuinely and adequately philosophize, that is, until political power and philosophy entirely coincide, while the many natures who at present pursue either one exclusively are forcibly prevented from doing so, cities will have no rest from evils,... nor, I think, will the human race." Socrates describes these "philosopher kings" as "those who love the sight of truth" and supports the idea with the analogy of a captain and his ship or a doctor and his medicine. According to him, sailing and health are not things that everyone is qualified to practice by nature. A large part of the Republic then addresses how the educational system should be set up to produce these philosopher kings. Very similar to the venture capitals today - There are two sides, one that seeks the truth, the other, glory. However, true knowledge comes to those that have a purpose for it. Learning the divine laws, vs local laws, that are always changing. However, Time doesn't wait for no one. Hence the connection to the Spirit is the key to learning anything that is permanent. Every thing else that we face every day, is temporary. However, relationships, with truth and love are eternal. In addition, the ideal city is used as an image to illuminate the state of one's soul, or the will, reason, and desires combined in the human body. Socrates is attempting to make an image of a rightly ordered human, and then later goes on to describe the different kinds of humans that can be observed, from tyrants to lovers of money in various kinds of cities. For example, San Francisco, where many of the pioneering happens for space technology and brain interface with zero point energy. The ideal human being epitome, and there is yoga and tao to support, the advanced level of understanding, with fasting and meditation. As a visionary, tyranny is mentioned, which is very common in venture capitalism today.

Chapter: Man'ysh - The Japanese Spirit 800 AD

"Collection of Ten Thousand Leaves", The Man'ysh contains 20 volumes and more than 4,500 waka poems, and is divided into three genres: "Zoka", songs at banquets and trips; "Somonka", songs about love between men and women; and "Banka" songs to mourn the death of people. These songs written by people of various statuses, such as the Emperor, aristocrats, junior officials, Sakimori soldiers (Sakimori songs), street performers, peasants, and Togoku folk songs (Eastern songs). There are more than 2,100 waka poems of unknown author. The signal, The Man'ysh is widely regarded as being a particularly unique Japanese work, though its contained poems and passages did not differ starkly from its contemporaneous (for Yakamochi's time) scholarly standard of Chinese literature and poetics; many entries of the Man'ysh have a continental tone, earlier poems having Confucian or Taoist themes and later poems reflecting on Buddhist teachings.

Chapter: Plato - Caves, Forms, Reason vs Appetite (Fasting)

Plato often discusses the father-son relationship and the question of whether a father's interest in his sons has much to do with how well his sons turn out. Ancient sources describe him as a bright though modest boy who excelled in his studies. Plato's quickness of mind and modesty as a boy, and the "first fruits of his youth infused with hard work and love of study". His father contributed all which was necessary to give to his son a good education, and, therefore, Plato must have been instructed in grammar, music, and gymnastics by the most distinguished teachers of his time. "Platonism" and its theory of Forms (or theory of Ideas) denies the reality of the material world, considering it only an image or copy of the real world. The theory of Forms is first introduced in the Phaedo dialogue (also known as On the Soul). According to this theory of Forms, there are at least two worlds: the apparent world of concrete objects, grasped by the senses, which constantly changes, and an unchanging and unseen world of Forms or abstract objects, grasped by pure reason (), which ground what is apparent. It can also be said there are three worlds, with the apparent world consisting of both the world of material objects and of mental images, with the "third realm" consisting of the Forms. Thus, though there is the term "Platonic idealism", this refers to Platonic Ideas or the Forms, and not to some platonic kind of idealism, an 18th-century view which sees matter as unreal in favor of mind. For Plato, though grasped by the mind, only the Forms are truly real. In Vedanta, Atma Buddha - The Soul and Mind Connection, where the Buddhi, the high intellect contains forms. Opposite of Buddhi is appetite, where Soul holds the balance, when to reason, and when to eat. Hence fasting is recommended, to get closer to the buddhi, a high state of enlightenment. In the present moment. Meditating with Plato and receive, through dream channels, doors to the heavens.
